

Floss Barber Back in Bethlehem

Fri, Aug 07, 2009

Design firm Floss Barber, Inc. recently designed Chef Emeril Lagasse's Chop House restaurant inside the Sands Bethlehem Casino Resort, and the restaurant's design team said the project was a smashing success. The group plans a second restaurant for Lagasse in Bethlehem—his first burger restaurant.

"We were thrilled to work with Emeril and his team," said founder Floss Barber. "This was an exciting project for our studio and we feel the design truly encompasses the essence of Chef Emeril's restaurants."

The firm used traditional steakhouse elements and infused them with contemporary touches, such as glass, mirrors and a stainless steel sculpture.

What will happen in the gaming industry once the recession eases?

We'll be back to normal within a year; customers will come back and spend as they always did

It will take several years for the customers to come back and spending to return to normal

Many customers will never return and the ones that do will dramatically alter their entertainment budgets
